Title: The Tenebrae: A Humanist Reconsideration of Holy Week
By Jennifer Cottril
Many Christian denominations observe Holy Week—the last week of Jesus’ life—with a service of the Tenebrae (literally, “shadows”), extinguishing candles one by one while recounting the story of the events leading to Jesus’ death. While many Unitarian Universalists would reject the Christian doctrines associated with the crucifixion, this story is nevertheless a powerful human drama. This service includes readings from the Christian scriptures interspersed with reflections on the universal human experiences of faith in the face of grief, loneliness, and death.

FLOOD UPDATES from Nancy Irons

As you already know, we have had another flood at UUCC. This time was worse than last summer. The emergency clean-up crew has been in and suctioned up all the water and disinfected our surfaces. Since this is known to have been a sewage backup, the norm is to remove all surfaces that were contaminated. The carpets, floors and the lower 2 feet of wallboard have been removed throughout most of the church. There is a bit more demolition to be done, including removing the lower cabinets in the kitchen. Then there will be more decontamination and drying, particularly in the ductwork.

Ultimately, we will need new floors, new kitchen cabinets, repaired and repainted walls and replacements for discarded furnishings. Luckily, the insurance company indicates we are covered for all of this. Unluckily, this will take at least several months to complete. In the meantime, temporary housing for our congregation has been lined up at Trinity Lutheran Church beginning March 11th.

Moving forward, we are in the process of interviewing general contractors, recommended by our insurance company, for the restoration work. Further, we now know the primary source of the flood water was the village sewer, so we can finally put effective preventative measures in place. Again, we are getting recommendations and quotes before authorizing any work. It will be a long haul before everything is put back together, but we will then have a newly refurbished building to return to.

Easter Sunday, April 1st – Services will be delayed until 10:45 am to accommodate Trinity Lutheran’s Easter Breakfast Celebration. UUCC is invited to share breakfast with the Trinity congregation between 8:30 and 10:30 am, if you care to join them. Our service will begin as soon as possible following the end of the breakfast.

Temporary Shelter from the Storm

Trinity Lutheran Church, (2901 Western Ave. in Park Forest) is opening their lower level to UUCC while our building is under reconstruction. Their church complex is made up of three connected buildings. We will be using the lower level of the middle building. Please park in the lot east of the church and use the entrance for the middle building.

Accessibility may be challenging for some. . . .There are 7 steps down to a hallway, then another set of 5 steps down to the main basement space, Good Shepard Hall. They have a combination “elevette” for the first set of steps and a chair lift for the second, however these require a trained operator to run. While this can be done, it will require some extra time to accomplish. Please plan accordingly. Coffee hour will be held at the rear of Good Shepard Hall.

The RCE children will be meeting in the Nursery off the hallway mentioned above. There are other classrooms, on a different level, that can be available for groups to meet in, if requested. We may plan to use one of their offices to house Virginia while our office is torn up. While the timeline is unclear, we anticipate it should be 2-4 months before returning to our building.

President’s Column by Jerome Rowley

I know that everyone is putting up with the temporary accommodations that the church will be using from now until at least the end of March while the repairs are being done to the church due to the recent flooding incident. I appreciate people’s forbearance with this situation while the Board and the staff of the church work on first taking measures that will prevent such an occurrence in the future and then getting the repairs done to the church. Who knows, we can use this opportunity for a bit of remodeling so that the church looks even better than it did before!

In the last month’s newsletter, I started on a project of going through the seven principles of Unitarian Universalism to tie it into what I have been learning at the Integral Life institute online based on the writings of philosopher Ken Wilber. Integral Theory basically takes the principles of evolution as a generalizing orientation, and I think this framework dovetails quite well with the principles of Unitarian-Universalism. I even fancy that the candlestick sculptures that we have on either side of our podium represent the double helix in honor of the principle of evolution, but perhaps the artist had another idea in mind!

The second principle is Justice, equity and compassion in human relations

The first principle was the inherent worth and dignity in every person. In the last column, I wrote that this first principle represents the first Worldcentric stage of cultural evolution. The first three stages of cultural evolution are those where people see the world from an egocentric point of view by having associations with others at the level of extended families or clans, then tribes, and then as subjects of an authority figure such as a king. The next level is marked by a shift to an ethnocentric point of view, where people identify as a particular group, such as being a member of a nation. This is the traditional worldview that many in the United States still identify with as their cultural “center of gravity.” The next stage is seeing the world through a Worldcentric viewpoint, meaning that it identifies with all people of the world, at first through the lens of rationality and science. This in Integral Theory is called the fifth or ORANGE level of cultural evolution (giving it an arbitrary color to make it distinguishable from the other levels), which is the modern or rational stage of evolution. This sees people as having rights as individuals simply by virtue of being human beings, who are created equal by our creator as stated in our Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. This is the modern or rational stage of evolution.

In all previous stages of cultural evolution, including the traditional stage, slavery was accepted (try looking for condemnation of slavery in any of the texts of the Abrahamic faiths—you won’t find it). However, with the dawn of the ORANGE rational level of evolution, slavery was seen as incompatible with this level and slavery disappeared within 100 or so years in every modern, industrialized country that attained this level of cultural evolution.

However, this sameness of people at the basic level is also accompanied by surface differences such as differences in gender, race, and culture that need to be respected. This requires a higher level of cultural evolution, the sixth level referred to as the GREEN or postmodern level of cultural evolution in Integral Theory. This is where the second principle comes in. You need to treat others who may be different from you on the surface with justice, equity and compassion, which requires structures that allow for this to take place. This is why, although slavery was abolished in 1860, it took the GREEN revolution which took place in the 1960s to usher in the Civil Rights movement which takes this stage of cultural evolution and creates a social framework to protect it.

In the realm of politics, the ORANGE stage of cultural evolution is represented by the development of capitalism in the 1800s and 1900s, and the GREEN stage with socialism and the idea of social insurance schemes
With all the issues that have come up recently, it has been decided to forgo the Fellowship Dinner this year. Instead, we hope to have a catered Brunch with the Annual Meeting in May. Hopefully, we will be able to celebrate a revamped church by then.

Jim and Anna Saul

Gordon Saul (son of Jim and Anna Saul—long time members of UUCC) has recently informed us that Anna passed away on Sunday the 18th in the late afternoon and Jim passed away later that evening. They were both in an Assisted Living facility in Madison, Wisconsin. Anna's passing was expected and so the family was already gathered to say goodbye. Jim's passing was a surprise to everyone, but the loving couple clearly could not be parted. May they rest in peace!

Gordon plans to hold a Memorial Service in the Park Forest area in the next month or so, but is still making arrangements. We will send out more information when it becomes available.

Social Security that started in the first half of the 20th century. The situation we find ourselves politically is that the Republicans are a mixture of the traditionalists (4th or Blue stage) and those supporting Wall Street (5th or ORANGE stage), who aren’t as concerned as the traditionalists with social conservatism. Democrats are split between those who are in the Establishment supporting the modernist, and yes, the capitalist, status quo, and those who support a more equitable distribution of wealth in the country. These positions were supported by Hillary Clinton and Bernie Sanders, respectively, in the last election cycle. So we have in this country a “culture war” between three different stages of cultural evolution: the traditional, the modern, and the postmodern, with the two political parties straddling two of these stages each.

However, the leadership of this country is basically a President who is at an egocentric stage of evolution, representing a constituency that is mostly ethnocentric—this is why it is hard to have a conversation politically because most liberals or progressives are coming from a stage of cultural evolution that is far different. However, the young people of today, as exemplified by the amazing students of Parkland, FL, are for the most part already GREEN in their cultural evolution and they see through the limited structures that are preventing politicians from protecting them and treating them with the justice, equity and compassion they deserve.

We, as Unitarian Universalists, whose second principle embodies this stage of cultural evolution, should resonate with these students and their amazing eloquence in trying to change the cultural gridlock which has prevented action in the arena of gun control for the past few decades. For those who doubt it could be done, look at the strides made by this GREEN stage of cultural evolution, from the fight for gay marriage to the #MeToo movement. The reason why the language at the recent Conservative Political Action Conference was so strident was precisely because they recognize that they are losing the Culture War with the rise of the next generation, and their time on the political stage is limited. They will do what they can to prolong it, but they cannot stop the forces of evolution. Let’s do what we can to accelerate these processes within ourselves and within our society!

CUUPs Spring Equinox – Road Trip to Joliet Church
March 24th
Given the current condition of our church, it seems prudent to attend a Spring Equinox ritual in another location. Join us for a road trip to the Joliet Unitarian Universalist Church, 3401 West Jefferson St. Joliet, IL. The exact time has not been set but it is usually 6:30 to 9:30 pm. There will be a potluck meal to start, so please bring a dish to share. To carpool, please contact Nancy Irons (708-712-3228).
I’m sure that we have all had the same reactions to the damaging flood of the church. How could this happen? Could we have foreseen it? What do we do now?

What do we do now? is a very exciting question! To some degree or other, we have an opportunity to re-envision our church and especially our Religious and Character Education spaces. Our old RCE spaces were very kid-friendly. But they were badly damaged by the sewer water. The two feet of drywall missing between the classrooms from the floor on up proves that. We’ll need to move forward with imagination and determination.

I’ll be asking the Religious and Character Education committee to put in some extra time. I’ll also be reaching out to two of our former RE Directors, Bob Fox and Heather Godbout. Since leaving us, they’ve worked with other RE programs. I’m hoping to benefit from their experience. I’m sure that what we come up with will retain the good of the old and provide an exciting space for our future RCE program.

In the meantime, the kids will be joining the congregation when our temporary spaces allow it. We’ll also take some field trips. We’ll visit some other churches (possibly Hindu and Baha’i temples), a museum or two, and maybe drop in on the Humanist Society.

I’ll be sending out the UU World article at the usual time if we’ve secured a suitable space for the Gabfest on that Sunday. If you are not already part of the UU Gabfest discussion group, send me your email. I’ll sign you up, describe what we do, and send you the article for the March meeting. My email is ddfeldt@gmail.com.

Here’s some further flood information from Nancy Irons. She and Virginia Jackson have been working with the insurance company. We own them our appreciation for spending time in an unpleasant environment.

“The adjuster for Church Mutual was finally out today. He spent a couple of hours with Virginia and the emer-genency cleanup guy. He was going to suggest that Church Mutual send out an inventory specialist to document how many toys and stuff were impacted by the flood. Not sure when that will happen. The rugs from Classrooms 1 & 2 are already discarded, as are the embroidered, mirrored stuffed stools. I think most of the stuffed animals, the books and canvas bins from classroom 2 and most of those stuffed animals need to be thrown away. I am less certain about the plastic toys and whether or not they can be disinfected enough. We will have to wait for the insurance figures next week. Luckily, we have "replacement" coverage, which means they compensate us for the anticipated cost of replacing items, rather than the value of items damaged.”

Onward and upward! Let’s make some lemonade!!

Listening Campaign Meets on March 10th

Thank you for the work that you have contributed to our Listening Campaign!

It’s our hope that you made new and stimulating connections through this work and that you are ready to deepen these relationships and move forward with us. We invite you to a meeting on Saturday, March 10th from 10am to 12 noon at Flossmoor Community Church (2215 Hutchison, Flossmoor). Since working with others on action initiatives not only builds community but contributes to the common good, we invite your ideas about projects, local or global, that we might embark upon.

We will meet in the “Family Room.” When looking at the front door of the Flossmoor Community Church you will see a stairway. To the right of the stairway is a sidewalk to a ground level entrance. Please enter from there.

Hope to see you on March 10th. Coffee and doughnuts will be served. Please invite anyone you think might have an interest in joining us. RSVP’s would be helpful.

Warmest regards from Nancy, Barb and Joyce

We are hoping to reschedule the cancelled February Movie Night short films on Immigration to sometime in March, but it is uncertain if the church will be ready. So Movie Night will be rescheduled but date is uncertain at this time.

Delightful Milwaukee based husband and wife duo Patty Stevenson and Craig Siemsen have graciously agreed to do a house concert at the home of Valerie Birk! Route One House Concerts, will be hosting Patty and Craig on the same night and time we would have had them appear at Edgar's Place Coffeehouse at UUCC, Saturday, March 10th at 7:30 PM (which has been relocated due to unexpected flooding).

Described as genuinely talented with classic folk voices, Patty Stevenson and Craig Siemsen are known for their gorgeous harmonies, impeccable musicianship, playful stage humor, and jewel-like original songs. Patty says about performing, “I try for magic – nothing less! For the place that opens hearts and will move an audience to tears or smiles.”

Patty and Craig were individually 'out there' enjoying their music, when, in the mid-1980s, they met while performing at a folk music festival. For many years, the couple maintained solo careers, even after they married. Eventually, with the prodding of wise friends, they agreed to perform one show as a duo. The rest, as they say, is history. Today, they continue to create and record original songs as well as their own variations on timeless pieces that often span the ages of creativity in sound.

A Little Church Humor
Last Saturday, February 17th to be exact, Sierra Club held a meeting for “Ready for 100%” campaign. We started at 10 in the morning and ended at 3 in the afternoon. We are in training for a campaign to bring on a commitment of 100% renewable energy for the state of Illinois.

Driving 50 miles to Aurora Illinois from Frankfort, I thought I might be the farthest away to come to the meeting. I was wrong. There were people from Oregon Illinois, Freeport Illinois and Rockford Illinois.

We met in the Fire Station museum. It was surprising when I went into the conference room that was upstairs. It was a pleasant sloping auditorium that could hold about 50 to 75 people. They were chairs with the little fold away desks for us to sit in. Everything was presented on power point in a well planned way. Time was watched to keep us on track for all the material that was being thrown at us. Below is a copy of the portion of where we hope to go.

A community-wide commitment to 100% renewable energy should include the following core elements:

1) Efficiency First
2) Equitable and Just: A commitment to achieving equity, affordability, and access for all members of the community in the transition to 100% renewable energy
3) Clean and Renewable 100%
4) Renewable Electricity by 2035
5) All Energy-Use Sectors by 2050
6) Inclusive and Transparent Planning and Implementation
7) Local Generation and Job Creation
8) Collaborate with Neighboring Communities
9) Advocate
10) Demonstrate Immediate Progress

During the presentation on Saturday, the leaders pointed out that Illinois is a leader in having an equitable and just law for those of lesser means. The law passed in 2017, signed by Governor Rauner, is called the Future Energy and Jobs Act. It was an important part of getting the bill passed by bringing in all the different groups, including the minorities.

This should sound quite familiar to UU’s. Our second principle rings true in making our society great. We are part of what will be a future great society.

Reflection on the Second Principle- Justice, equity, and compassion in human relations points us toward something beyond inherent worth and dignity. It points us to the larger community. It gets at collective responsibility. It reminds us that treating people as human beings is not simply something we do one-on-one, but something that has systemic implications and can inform our entire cultural way of being.
