Sunday Worship Service
10:00am

THIS MONTH OUR SERVICES WILL CONTINUE TO BE HELD AT TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH: 2901 WESTERN AVE - PARK FOREST

May 6th
Title: Speak True - On the Value of Veracity
By February Sky (Phil Cooper & Susan Urban)
Lying and deception are considered morally reprehensible across cultures, yet we find ourselves in an era when many believe that they're fine as long as someone can “get away with it.” We will consider these ideas, and also when it might be okay to bend the truth just a little bit.

May 13th
Title: Why Everyone Needs a Goddess!
By Reverend Denise Tracy
We will explore societal images of the divine and the possibility that female images of the divine might give all of us a fuller, deeper life.

May 20th
Title: Necessary Mistakes
By Beverly Feldt
We all want to get it right. But what if making mistakes is an essential part of how we grow?

May 27th
Title: Radical Hospitality
By Marcia Curtis
Jesus was a social revolutionary in his practice of radical hospitality. Like Jesus we are called to offer radical hospitality to the outcasts of our society including incarcerated and formerly incarcerated people.

Trinity Lutheran at 2901 Western Ave in Park Forest continues to be our home away from home. They have graciously offered to rent the lower level of their building to us to hold services, forums, and events. We cannot promise that ALL of our usual EVENTS will be held there so we highly encourage you to contact the group facilitator or check our website to verify the status of any of the events scheduled in May before you arrive. Our facilitators’ contact information is on the calendar page inside this newsletter. Our church website: uuccpf.org

President’s Column by Jerome Rowley

In the last three monthly newsletters, I started on a project of going through the seven principles of Unitarian Universalism to tie it into what I have been learning at the Integral Life Institute online based on the writings of philosopher Ken Wilber. I am continuing with this project with the fourth principle, which is

A free and responsible search for truth and meaning

Unitarian Universalism encourages the free search for truth and meaning, which makes it a post-conventional religion, as opposed to a conventional religion which truth and meaning are essentially handed down to the person through traditions or scriptures.

However, even though we encourage a free search by individuals for truth and meaning, that search needs to be responsible. Here’s how I interpret what that phrase means.

First of all, you need to know what quadrant you are viewing the truth from at any given time. What do I mean by quadrant? According to Integral Theory, you can see reality from the standpoint of the interior (feelings, thoughts) or from the exterior (observable behaviors or things). Another dimension is seeing things individually in isolation or to see them as parts of larger systems. These two dimensions combined create four quadrants:

- Interior individual (the subjective realm of psychology and spiritual experience)
- Interior collective (the subjective realm of culture)
- Exterior individual (the objective realm of the hard sciences)
- Exterior collective (the objective realm of the social sciences)

Let me give an example. We had an adult forum in the UU church I used to belong to in Anaheim, CA. The topic was “the obesity epidemic in the US.” Many of the people in the forum said that the problem really was one of will power. People just needed to stop eating foods that were high in calories but low in nutrition. Some people responded to this by saying, but our capitalist system means that it is profitable for companies to sell such high-calorie, low-nutrition foods so they advertise them heavily and thus create in people a craving for them that wouldn’t exist. The overall argument between these groups was caused by the fact that each of them had a partial truth; correct, but only partial. Yes, the interior of the individual (will power) DOES matter in fighting obesity, but that will power comes up against some pretty powerful forces that are created by the exterior value system (capitalism). So when you are searching for the truth, know from what corner you are viewing reality, because this will allow you to better understand those who are arguing from a different corner.

Another factor which determines how you will see reality is not just which quadrant you are looking from, but also what stage of development you are at. People at the orange level of cultural development can understand capitalism, which has at its core the truth that evolution is fueled in part by the competition between individual organisms. However, it takes a higher level of cultural development, the green level, to understand that evolution also is fueled by the cooperation between individual organisms that are part of the same group. This is why conservatives sometimes have a hard time understanding the concept of insurance, especially social insurance programs like Medicare. Why should I have to pay if someone else is sick? On the level of individuals, that doesn’t make sense. But since they are unable to understand the higher evolutionary principle that works on groups and not just individuals, they are unable to see that having such social insurance does indeed benefit them as individuals if they can understand that they, like us, are part of the same society, and having a healthy society promotes healthy individuals within it.
So when you are dealing with a conservative or someone from a different level of cultural evolution from your own, you often have to use skillful means to communicate in language they understand. When I was living in Anaheim, CA, I was living in Orange County, which is like “ground zero” of the conservative movement in the US. I would never introduce myself by mentioning that I was a Democrat, because this would often shut down the conversation. I would talk about political issues by mentioning that the middle class was getting hammered by everything that the government is doing. THAT would often get a positive reaction, and conservatives would open up to me in ways they wouldn’t have if they perceived me first as a Democrat. This was the way that I used skillful means to open up a conversation by talking in a language that they could relate to.

For example, when a conservative says that the government should be taking care of its own people, rather than taking care of immigrants, rather than arguing this point directly, turn the tables on them and ask, “Maybe they should pay more attention to their own people than people from other countries. Do you think the government IS supporting our own people enough?” An honest person will realize that no, even our own people are not being served by the present government. This will open up room for a discussion on what the government could be doing to better their lives, rather than focusing on the perceived reality that others are getting more help than they are.

So in exploring reality, and discussing it with others, if we are more responsible, we will see reality from different perspectives, for one, so we will have a better understanding. And in talking to others, we will be able to talk to others who are seeing reality from different perspectives and be better communicators.

Temporary Shelter from the Storm

Trinity Lutheran Church, (2901 Western Ave. in Park Forest) has opened their lower level to UUCC while our building is under re-construction. Their church complex is made up of three connected buildings. We are using the lower level of the middle building. Please park in the lot east of the church and use the entrance for the middle building.

Accessibility may be challenging for some. . . .There are 7 steps down to a hallway, then another set of 5 steps down to the main basement space, Good Shepard Hall. They have a combination “elevette” for the first set of steps and a chair lift for the second, however these require a trained operator to run. While this can be done, it will require some extra time to accomplish. Please plan accordingly. Coffee hour will be held at the rear of Good Shepard Hall.

The RCE children meet in the Nursery off the hallway mentioned above. There are other classrooms, on a different level, that can be available for groups to meet in, if requested. We use one of their offices to house Virginia while our office is torn up. The timeline is unclear, but we anticipate it should be around the end of summer before returning to our building.
FLOOD UPDATE

We are in the process of deciding on a flood prevention device to install on the sewer line before we begin any reconstruction.

Church Mutual, our insurance company, has sent us a 20+ page report from the adjuster with details of what work needs to be done in each room and what the compensation will be. Unfortunately, many inconsistencies and omissions have been spotted. We are currently re-negotiating the settlement recommendations and amounts.

We have one contractor who has been very diligent with follow-ups and would very much like to get the job to rebuild at UUCC. While they promise to complete the job in a timely manner, once the contract is awarded, it may be the end of summer before we are back in our building.

PLEASE BE PATIENT

Register Now for General Assembly

(GA) is the annual meeting of our Unitarian Universalist Association (UUA). Attendees worship, witness, learn, connect, and make policy for the Association through democratic process. Anyone may attend; congregations must certify annually to send voting delegates.

General Assembly 2018
June 20-24, Kansas City, MO

All Are Called

Grounded in a deep belief that we are all prophets, Unitarian Universalists ask, “How can we faithfully meet the demands of our time?” The call to witness and act for justice in our society and in the world is clear. So, too, is the call to examine our structures and practices, dismantling and transforming those which fail to recognize the full humanity of all people and to honor the interdependent web of life. Join us in Kansas City as we dive deeply into questions of mission for our Unitarian Universalist Association, for our congregations and communities, and for each of us as individuals. Together, we’ll ask:

Who and how are we called to be at this time, individually and collectively?

Click HERE to view Schedule of Events
Spring has sprung in RCE. The seeds we planted two weeks ago have started to sprout. We’ll be putting them into seedling pots soon. Our hope is to get permission from Trinity to plant them in the flower beds outside of our classroom!

I've got the name of the Director of Religious Education at First Unitarian, so I'll be following up with her regarding the UUA Coming of Age Program. By the end of the program the teens will be writing a statement of faith which they’ll present to the congregation. There is a possibility that those taking part in this program will go to Boston for a Unitarian Universalist historical tour, pending funding. Also the youth are to provide a brunch or dinner at Ronald McDonald House in Hyde Park.

At our last Religious and Character Education Committee meeting, we finalized the dates of our participation in the area’s farmer’s markets. We’ll be in Homewood on September 1, 8, and 15 and in Park Forest on September 22 and 29 and October 6. We’ll have general church information at our booth, but our focus will be on the Religious and Character Education classes. Our hope is to have young families visit our church. While parents are looking over our information, their kids are invited to make slime to take home. We have a lot to offer a family that’s looking for good character development for their children without adopting a dogma or creed.

This fall, our plan is to divide the teaching duties among a group of interested congregation members. The hope is to have a six week rotation. If you’re interested in being part of the team, see Dan Feldt.

The Gabfest continues to generate lively discussion. May’s talk will be centered around the ideas on an article entitled “Streaming Worship.” Click on link below for more information about this.

https://www.uuworld.org/articles/streaming-worship

The article states, “Live streaming is an option for any congregation that wants a broader reach. Although it requires some computer expertise and financial resources, it’s cheaper than one might think. Equipment costs can be as low as $400 for a one-stop solution, a camera that live streams directly,” said Jason Chapman, facilities manager at First Unitarian. Other costs include a live streaming service provider and a license for any copyrighted music used in the service.”

Come join us on May 13th.
